Each software is released under the type of license that can be found in the program pages as well as in the search or category pages. Here are the most common license types:Freeware programs can be downloaded used for free and without time limits. Freeware products can be used free of charge for both personal and professional (commercial) use.Open SourceOpen Source software is source code software that anyone can inspect, modify or improve. Programs released under this license may be used for personal and commercial purposes. There are many different open source licenses, but all must comply with Open Source Definition - in short: the software can be freely used, modified and shared. Free to playThis license is commonly used for video games and allows users toand play the game for free. Basically, a product is offered Free to Play (Freemium) and the user can decide whether he wants to pay the money (Premium) for additional features, services, virtual or physical assets that expand the functionality of the game. In some cases, ads can be shown to users. DemoDemo programs have a limited feature for free, but pay for a number of advanced features or for removing advertising from the program interfaces. In some cases, all features are disabled until the license is purchased. Demos are usually not limited in time (like test software), but functionality is limited. Test The test software allows the user to evaluate the software for a limited period of time. After this trial period (usually 15-90 days) the user can decide whether or not to buy the software. Although, most test software products are limited over time some also have functional limitations. Paid Usually software or commercial games are produced for sale or to serve a commercial purpose.
