What are the deep set eyes? The deep set eyes are more backward than the bone of the forehead when you look at one side of the face, and can be hooded, almond or any shape of the eyes at the same time. They are determined by the depth of the eyes compared to the rest of the face and usually have a bone in front of the forehead. Deep eyes are a type of eyes and not a characteristic of eyelids. It is all about the depth of the eye when you have a profile angle and not on the space between the bone of the forehead and eyes or eyelids. You can have round eyes and deep eyes; You can have almond eyes and deep eyes, or as in my case, I have eyes with hood deep. Usually, monolids, they don't have deep eyes. In short, the deep eyes are accompanied by a bone in front of priming and a greater fold. Let me show you an image that explains this best. And in this video below, you can see different types of deep eyes. How do you make eyes deep pop? The best way to make Eye Set SET POP is by using color theory on eye makeup by applying darker shades on the fold and some of the forehead bone and brighter shades on the mobile eyelid. There are some other crucial tips and tricks to accomplish deep eyes and look beautiful that I will share with you in the step by step tutorial below. How to make deep eyes look bigger (tutorial) Step 1. Hiding any Darkness We want to correctly hide the dark shades that some deep eyes were naturally around the eyes and cause a deeper illusion. If you are dark under your eyes, apply a concealer below with a salmon subtype with a salmon. Deep Burio under the eyes, better try an orange concealer. This step is the key to deep eyes because we want to hide any darkness around the eyes and without correction of color (no matter how much the complete cover concealer you use on any shade) , the dark subtype will be there. The light and medium fishing concealer controls this concealer to Ulta another excellent peachy concealer to hide the darkness under the eyes is this. Post Related Makeup: The best palettes and colors of the umbrella to make BrownPop! Step 2. The shivers under the eyes now that we hide the dark shades, we want to make it brighter so we can create an illusion of pushing that area to the front. Error will be, just applying the concealer on the under eyes and starting with the rest of the eye makeup. What we want to do is take a lighter concealer than our Foundation and apply a little little On the eyes under the eyes and the inner corner of the eye. Taking it also at the eyelids to make the eye area around brighter with a uniform tone. You like this note: don't forget the inner corner of your eyes next to your nose. This area must be bright and some deep eyes (like me) tend to have that area darker than the rest. For this tutorial, I'm using the ribbon shape corrector in this shade that I highly recommend to anyone with deep dark circles and I need full coverage with a lightweight formula that prevents lacing under the eyes! I was a bit skeptical to try it, but once this concealer touches my eyes, I understand why everyone loved it! The technique is a "faase" Next, apply the "faase" technique. In case you don't know this method, take a look at my Hooded Eye Tutorial and then come back here to continue reading the post. Set Set The eyes tend to have a larger crease (due to the depth and natural shape of the forehead bone) and we don't want to follow that crease to start with the shadow. I have hooded eyes, which means I have extra skin on the bone forehead area that doesn't let my mobile eyelid show up when I have eyes open. (Super Common on mature eyes) and I don't want to follow my natural crease of deep eyes which will lead me to apply the shadow in a way that my eyes will seem knocked down Uts. So here when a "Fake" applies the folding method. The perfect fold with a slightly inverted direction and follow that when you apply your shadow fold. I'm using a warmer light brown shadow with a small fluffy brush and following my false fold. L...m Blending with left and right movements. When I know my brush doesn't have too many colors I take it at the outer corner of my eyes in a straight line. As in the picture below. Open and close your eyes to make sure you blend the shadow forward and directly the direction of your hairline. We want to blend the color a little out of the eyelids. Step 4. Deepen the Right Areas Now that we've created the new fold, we want to merge it well and deeper even deeper with a darker shadow than the last Brown-I, using a medium brown shadow with a pencil eye shadow brush. Deep Set Eyes, we want to "Hide" or create the illusion of backwards somewhere in the forehead bone. Without taking the dark tones on the inner corner of the eyes. Give a precise pencil brush and place the medium tone just above the natural fold, in the middle of the "faase" that we created. Go back to your little one for mixing and melt the two shades in one direction upwards. When you know that your brush has a minimum or minimum color, take it to the outside corner of the eye in straight direction. We want to touch some of the bone of the forehead to push it, however, we want to leavespace between that shade and the eyebrows to highlight that area. Mobile Pallets The theory of colors says that the lightest shades bring light and brightness to that area creating the illusion of a more prominent and larger area. So on the mobile eyelid, I'm applying a sparkly beige umbrella starting from the inner corner and covering all the mobile eyelids that follow the "falsa fold". It means that I'm bringing this clear tone up enough to cover a little of my natural fold. In the "wrong" eye, I'm applying a dark wine shade on the whole mobile eye following my natural fold. Does this mean that we can't make smokey eyes or apply dark shades on the mobile eyelid for deep fixed eyes? No! We can swing a beautiful Smokey eye (I will show you as in this Easy Brown Smokey eye tutorial) and apply any shade on the mobile eyelids, but this specific Shadow look will improve and make your eyes set deeper pop and larger. And you can see the difference in both eyes. Wait! I don't always want to sound "natural." » How can I add a touch of color for Deep-set eyes? A simple way is to apply the color on the outside so that it is based on the lightest shade on the mobile eyelid. Like this And so I added the same shade of dark wine of the wrong eye, on the eye «right», and without doing my Hooded deep-set Look deeper. Point 6. Eyeliner Technique Check out my guide on how to apply the eyeliner for hooded eyes where I explain step by step with details and images the best and easiest way to apply the eyeliner for hooded eyes (which also applies to hooded eyes) and the only type of Eyeliner I recommend. tutorial. Should deep eyes wear the eyeliner? The Deep Eyes set, like any other kind of eye, can wear the eyeliner but with specific strategies to make them stand out and not look even deeper. The best practice for deep eyes is always applying a thin eyeliner on the eyeliner line and avoiding black eyeliner on the floating line. Applying the eyeliner on the top of the eyes we shape our natural eye, however we do not want to opt for an eyeliner more often than it is part of the mobile eyelid, because we will make the illusion of even deeper eyes. How to apply the eyeliner to small deep eyes? I intend to share it in a Doâ and Donâ for theEyeliner on Deep Set Eyes. DOâ -Apply a thin line of the eyeliner just above the eyelash line, starting to make it a little more often in the center of the eye towards the outer direction corner>Create a thin winged line towards the top (Check the whole Full story on the easiest way to make winged eyeliner here) -Apply -Apply Eyeliner pencil on the floating line -Apply the first light/media tone of transition on the lower line of the eyelashes only to make harmony around the eyes.Â DONTâ -Apply a THICK eyeliner from the inside corner to the outside-Thick eyeliner or not winged eyeliner (Fare the eyeliner looking deeper and more eyeliner Â We want clearer and more tone on the eyes than making it look dark, but like all in the makeup, these tips depend on the occasion and mood for that makeup of the eyes, when they are in a dark mood hanging black on the line of float, and it is It's only EINE. Point 7. The brown bone is! We want to highlight the bone of the eyebrow, but in the right way. How does it work? Apply a matt or slightly shiny beige shading with a precise brush just under the forehead without touching much of the eyebrow bone. NOTE: We do not want to use the same highlighter we regularly use to avoid further protruding this area. In addition, you can highlight your inner corner of the eyes with the same or opt for a more shimmer shade. That's it. Next, you can be creative and do something different to make your eye unique, how to add glitter on mobile eyelids. I'm looking for a natural umbrella and I'll leave it like this. I liked it a lot like this trick for hooded eyes looks like no fake eyelashes, but if you are more in the mood, apply us fake eyelashes. I recommend this clear strip of fake eyelashes that do not darken the eye too much, to maintain this brightness and balance the depth of the eyes.
