A highly recommended read. It is disheartening to know that some of the visionary suggestions by talented people often fail to be considered for implementation by the authorities. So, overall, an attractive cover page. Here are a couple of videos from the news channels and media houses who cover this news in their own way. The topic the author has chosen is very important. However, if you are familiar with many other claims and controversies, you might have heard about Gustave Whiteheads. D. His known father and acclaimed author - Vijaygupta Maurya – has conquered many milestones in the arena till then. Vijay Kaushik and many other authors of team Safari are none other than Nagendra Vijay himself! Yes, they all are the pen names of him. We also see a small illustration of “winged” airplane, which was the first airplane (and yes, it was not by the famous Wright brothers!). Here is a quick link to the same: Safari Magazine | Gujarati Edition | July 2017 Issue | Views And Reviews Do you think the compensation of Rs. 50 lakh will give him his reputation, and more importantly the time, back? If you love reading mysteries, a small article about paranormal stuff and Kolkata Metro will interests you. We, however, were busy with some books and other stuff, so the review is delayed a little. I will, however, would like to share a fact mentioned in the editorial. They bagged the credit for making the first functional airplane in the modern history of mankind (with proof). An editorial, not to be missed. Other Interesting Articles: Here are some of the other interesting and detailed articles from this issue of safari, which I enjoyed reading: From 20th May, 2019 the definition of 1 Kilogram is going to change! How the birds and animals survive during the hot summer days and how do they cop up with the requirements of remain hydrated? Just think that if a country which can produce the rockets and satellite launching vehicles which are the most reliable and economic in the entire world, can't it produce airplanes which can be of fantastic qualities? or its affiliates While there are thousands of magazines hit newstands regularly not all of them are worth spending money and more importantly time. I remember how Arnold Schwarzenegger (does he need any introduction?!) started advocating for going vegetarian. With the limitation of being available only in Gujarati, a regional (famous and popular too) language of India, its reach is limited too. The good thing about unbiased knowledge magazine is, it gives you an objective analysis in broad aspects and context in quite a realistic manner about some important current happenings. Safari is a knowledge magazine from India which is running since many years. It could have been proven beneficiary to the country otherwise. It is something similar to liking an attractive and neat and tidy person amongst a group of people. We love reading quality stuff, be it a book, magazine or something similar. We wish that it can be the case for you, and may the knowledge you achieve from such genuine sources bring some fortune for you as well :). I enjoyed reading an article about Veg and Non-Veg food habits. Dr. Kapany should have been awarded a Nobel price. A detailed article about India’s ventures of building “self-made” airplane for warfare and how the things went wrong (deliberately due to some influences, in many cases); is definitely not to be missed. The greenish background makes the cover page “cool”. All I want to say is, the article is about Sputnik. And, one can understand the reasons behind it. Incredible India: Some people are so brainwashed with the paid media campaigns that they consider everything from the west as the best. It is obvious to have a detailed article about the elections in India, in this issue. Safari Magazine (Gujarati Edition) | October 2018 Issue – Cover Page As you can see, the cover page of October 2018 issue of Safari is quite decent, informative, and attractive. Narinder Singh Kapany | WikiPedia Article An article about Narinder Singh FYI: For Your Information segment has some really informative articles. Recently, when a fellow from Gujarat, won a remarkable amount in a TV show named “Kaun Banega Karorepati”, he credited Safari for being a great source of knowledge for him. Frankly speaking, I didn’t know much about A1 and A2 types of milk before reading this article. Book Cover:Summary: Book Cover: We strongly believe that while we all know that we shouldn’t judge a book (or for that matter any media including a magazine) by its cover page, but, we cannot deny a cover page’s influence on a purchase decision. Some of the news channels were able to make him agree on giving an interview as well: Mr. Naryanan is a remarkable scientist. The articles bring in information about the importance of Jet engines also. The editorial of this month talks about something significant which is less talked about by the sensation-hungry media. The article about Shakuntala Express explores a unique segment of Indian Railway. It is the “solid fuel” which is considered as the best option for the same. Rather than telling more about Gustave and his case, I would suggest you read a very detailed article about it in this issue. © 1996-2015, Amazon.com, Inc. The article, of course, talks in detail about the corruption scandal and the incidents related to the same. I think the physics people will relate to more strongly. Summary: Definitely, a magazine which is worth the money and time you spend reading it. Safari Magazine | Gujarati Edition | May 2019 Issue | Cover Page The cover page of this issue is made with cheerful colors and is attractive at first glance. N. Over to you: Do let us know your views about this article via comments below, we like to read you. So, it works nothing less than a bridge between the reader and the editor. Unless and until we are proud of our own stuff, how can we expect others to recognize it? And yes, as always, the articles in Safari are known to bring in some lesser-known but important historical incidents as well. He is 75 now and still has the same passion for the work he is doing. Well, in a big country like India, small scale elections happen at the gap of every few months at different places. And, there is no prize on guessing it correct, the reasons were more economical than the necessities! And, it is interesting to know that A2 milk is better in quality than A1 milk! While other countries are importing the sources of A2 milk, we are still not much aware of it and running after A1 milk (sometimes unknowingly). He then demanded from the people to defeat the candidate! Will you believe it that a strong leader of the party asks people to defeat a candidate of his own party when found that the candidate is unsuitable for the service and responsibility?! Can you expect a similar behavior by party leaders in the current scenario? Summary: Definitely, worth your money and especially the time you spend to read it. Definitely, an effort worth praising. The chances are there that only a few readers know him and those who’ve heard about might not have heard in detail. I highly recommended you read the long editorial of this issue to know more about him and his journey. And, eventually, it reflects the way mankind made remarkable progress in a specific area of science. From An Old Issue Of Safari: It is one of the most important articles of the issue. Iron Pillar is considered as a mysterious one. Definitely, the things didn’t go well with many. In a rare incident, when Pt. Nehru, the first prime minister of India, during a campaign came to know that the candidate for who he asked people to vote, has done some corruption. Kaushik seems has done remarkable research for this article. Let us take a look at some of the interesting articles I found in the magazine. There was a detailed article about Mr. Naryanan and his case in an earlier issue of Safari. In this article, the author talks about an election in India when people with strong will and character used to participate. However, the makers actually worked on making a composite metal in a way that can prevent itself from rusting. The magazines which are focused on knowledge and science are often considered worth reading but boring. The Backbone of Internet and Dr. Narinder Kapany Have you heard about Dr. Narinder Kapany? The article talks in detail about the types of Cow Milk. But, we must have to be objective judging the things. This election is very important because in this roughly 1-month long session, the people of India (that is Bharat) is going to elect (and select) the central government for the next tenure. Of course, it is a small one, but I will recommend it for reading. It also takes references for various books and historical incidents. An unbiased article about AC/DC (the electric current) is also there in this segment. I’ve also enjoyed reading FactFinder and other segments in this issue. When Nagendra Vijay – an Indian Author who writes mainly in Gujarati – started his career in writing around 60 years ago, he was determined to write the content with a substance without making it boring. Of course, it can. The illustration of HF-24 Maruts flying high in the sky in the backdrop of borders and colorful sky is nothing less than mesmerizing. And, some of them feeling ashamed to recognize some of the incredible things/events/stuff from the motherland. I will not spill beans about it by talking in detail. The most important lessons to learn from the article is about supporting the truth and opposing corruption. Until we understand the science and facts about something, it looks mysterious or magical, however, in reality, everything remains the way it is due to some reasons. some are trying to use it politically to expose a scam in the deal and others are defending it. May 2019 issue of Safari Magazine (Gujarati Edition) is published quite on time and hit the newsstands in the first week of April. And, more importantly, the author explores the historical incidents of past which lead to the hybrid cows and various types of milk. The Editorial: I mentioned it often in the past as well that I consider “the editorial” as one of the most important segments of the magazine issue. And, for that, they have studied the environment of the place deeply. The issue came to limelight when a reputed magazine brought out the details about Gustave. I will recommend you to read the article as it also explores how ignorant we are when it comes to preserving history. When you read the history of HAL, and the way it has its roots situated in a small town of Gujarat, India; it will make you proud for the nation. The “Incredible India” segment of Safari brings in some interesting facts from various parts of India (that is Bharat) and talks objectively about the facts associated with the same. The only thing I can mention as a drawback of this issue is, it is available in a regional language (Gujarati) and thus its reach is limited. It is rightly said that “the knowledge is the power”. HF-24 Marut: These days the article(s) related to the famous “Rafale Deal” are trending in all types of media. Light gray illustrations within the yellow background, however, doesn’t look very effective. Don’t give it a miss. The sad case of Gustave WhiteHeads: Whenever some talks about airplanes and its history, it is obvious to remember The Wright brothers, Orville and Wilbur. Overall, a decent cover page which could have been better. It lets the editor share his/her views about the current happenings, and more importantly his/her vision for the content of the issue as well. He envisioned something that even Dr. Sarabhai and Dr. Kalam were not considered as a possible and viable solution! The fuel is a very important part of any vehicle, especially the cryogenic rockets and Satellite launch vehicles. And, there is nothing wrong in it. This issue brings in factual information about the famous Iron Pillar (खंडा खंभू) of Delhi. The interesting segment is the answer of, why such missions are necessary or what significant benefit it brings to the country. Gustav WhiteHeads | Article at Huffington Post Gustav is considered as the first one who made a functional model of an airplane which he flew. Written in his signature style, this article by Nagendra Vijay once again proves his credibility and the efforts he put in when researching for a topic. It belongs to the history but it is still relevant (or possibly more relevant). It is 300th issue of the magazine (Gujarati edition)! It is really tough to run a knowledge-oriented magazine for so many years. My aim here is to point important factors explored in smaller articles in this issue of Safari. The article brings in fact about the effects of both food habits on the environment and planet with figures. It conveys detail about the content within quite interestingly. Here are some external links I would recommend to get more information about him. Registering a new account is quick and easy... A very detailed article about “black hole”, especially in aspects of recent research advances. Book Cover:Summary: Book Cover: Let us take a look at the cover page of the magazine. And since the time of Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru, the first prime mister of India, who envisioned India to be self-dependent in the security aspects, the projects are going on. But, no one is talking deliberately about the situation which made India be dependent on the foreign countries for weapons and other military needs! It is actually a series of events, plans, corruption, sabotages and much more, behind all these. I will try to focus more on the smaller articles as often people explore detailed articles but give a miss to the smaller ones. It had a set back period also, but, eventually, it was revived and is running stronger today. Don’t you think actually the country’s loss is much bigger than his personal loss? It is worth to note that the magazine has tried publishing its English edition also, but unfortunately, it didn’t survive. Here is a public domain video from Rajya Sabha TV about Iron Pillar, Delhi. It gives an impression of having dirt spots on a rather smooth surface. This issue of Safari is very special for various reasons. There are regular sections like “FactFinder and Q/A” among others, which makes the magazine definitely worth reading. It is one of those rare publications which doesn’t contain even a single third-party commercial advertisement! The only limitation of the magazine is its publication is in a regional language. Here is a YouTube video which will give you little more information about him: The back of the front cover page contains an article about him. A1 Milk V/s A2 Milk (Cow Milk): There is an interesting article by Sushil Bhatiya in this issue where he talks about various categories of Cow Milk. It is about Shri N. Nagendra Vijay is the primary man behind the magazine - Safari. So, like every month, we were curious to get our hands on the October 2018 issue of Safari (Gujarati Edition). As we have already talked about the editorial earlier, I am not going to repeat it. And yes, do not forget to share this article with your friends who you think are interested in quality reading. In this issue’s editorial, Nagendra Vijay, the editor, author and the main factor behind the magazine explores some of the pages from the diary of his life. The article about Jatinga, a place in the hilly area of north-east India, which attracts some birds to commit suicide (which ultimately becomes a source of a feast for the locales) is definitely worth reading. It makes you think that we, human beings, are probably the most dangerous species. Definitely a “not to miss” article with a lot of details, facts, images, and illustrations. Once Upon A time... It is the election period in India. Magazine quality is not the only factor to consider, the personal choices do matter a lot. So, a large amount of the content of an issue of Safari is actually penned by him. It also explores some sad moments. The airplane he made literally had two wings Embedded above are two videos from the public domain of YouTube, and if you try to search on the topic, you will find many more. The article notes some of the historical details and explains them in the modern perspective. You would definitely love to explore magazines based on your liking and hobbies. Also subscribe to our newsletter, to get notified periodically about the articles we publish. It is worth mentioning the fact that Nagendra Vijay’s son Harshal Pushkarna is also a talented writer and keeps the legacy of the family, in terms of literature, moving forward. Of course, it does never mean that we should blindly do narcissism about everything we have. Dr. Naryanan worked on the alternative for the same and could lead to even more economic flights. Ravindra Kaushik, Capt. There are few more articles mentioned on the cover page, but let us discuss them later in this article. Nambi Naryanan, a remarkable scientist from ISRO. Other Stuff: In addition, you will find a detailed article about ISRO’s mission to send humans to space. This article also makes me refer the editorial for this issue. The regular readers of ThinkerViews know that Reader’s Digest (India edition) and Safari (a knowledge magazine) are the ones we love to read and share our unbiased views and reviews about. And the scientists really made some remarkable breakthroughs, but, the things never kicked off the way they should.
