The Department of State refers to it as FS 545. The Certificate of Birth Abroad continues to be a valid form of identification for birth abroad. About CitizenPath CitizenPath provides simple, affordable, step-by-step guidance through USCIS immigration applications. Alternatively, the individual may apply for a U.S. passport. RECOMMENDED: Acquisition of Citizenship for Children Born Outside the United States Replacing a Consular Report of Birth Abroad The U.S. State Department stopped producing the Certificate of Report of Birth (DS-1350) in 2010. So check the embassy's webpage for more specific instructions. Once the consular officer approves the application, the Consular Report of Birth Abroad (Form FS-240) can be issued. PO Box 1213 Sterling, VA 20166-1213 A Consular Report of Birth Abroad (CRBA) is an official document certifying acquisition of American citizenship for a child born outside of the United States. Also known as Form FS-240, the document provides the same evidence of citizenship as a United States passport, a Certificate of Naturalization, or a Certificate of Citizenship. A Consular Report of Birth Abroad of a U.S. citizen is only issued to a child who acquired U.S. citizenship at birth and who is generally under the age of 18 at the time of the application. Procedure for Documenting a Birth Abroad Start by collecting evidence of the child's birth. We provide support for the Application for Naturalization (Form N-400), Application for Replacement Citizenship Document (Form N-565), Application for Certificate of Citizenship (Form N-600), and several other immigration services. Note to Reader: This post was originally published on January 5, 2016, and has been modified with improvements. Failure to promptly document a child who meets the statutory requirements for acquiring U.S. citizenship at birth may cause problems for the parents and the child when attempting to establish the child's U.S. citizenship and eligibility for the rights and benefits of U.S. citizenship, including entry into the United States. PO Box 1213 Sterling, VA 20166-1213 The U.S. State Department generally takes 4 to 8 weeks time to process your Consular Report of Birth Aboard. In order to fit the criteria to do this you must be either: The individual registered on the vital record document (if over 18 years old) The parent or legal guardian of the child that appears on the document Another person with the correct written authorization To request a replacement as an eligible candidate, you will need to pay a fee and submit a form of photo ID. These were previously issued by the State Department to foreign-born children whose parents were US citizens or residents. In order to register for form FS 240, you must complete either: Form DS 2029 Form DS 5507 (If the child was born out of wedlock to a father with US citizenship.) In addition to the completed form you will also need to provide: The child's birth foreign-issued birth certificate Two 2" x 2" photographs of the child Proof of parents US citizenship (i.e. passport, birth certificate, green card, etc) Proof of parents' physical presence in the US (i.e. vaccination records, educational records, social security statements, etc) Parents' proof of identity Pregnancy and birth records Sufficient proof of a relationship between the parents The application must then be submitted to the local consulate or embassy in the overseas territory. By law, U.S. citizens, including dual nationals, must use a U.S. passport to enter and leave the United States. Not Eligible for a Consular Report of Birth Abroad Children who acquired U.S. citizenship or U.S. nationality at birth in certain territories of the United States during relevant time periods are not eligible for a Consular Report of Birth Abroad. You will also provide a notarized written request containing the following information: The individual's birth name Any adoptive names that were later given The individual's place and date of birth The person's passport information The names of the parents or legal guardians The serial number of the lost FS 240 (if known) The requester's signature Guardianship court order (legal guardians only) The requester's mailing address and contact information Once these 3 items are gathered, they must then be mailed to the following address: U.S. Department of State Passport Vital Records Section 44132 Mercure Cir. An FS 545 is still commonly used to prove US citizenship for those who were born in a foreign country before 1990. PO Box 1213 Sterling, VA 20166-1213 Read more: How do I get a copy of my Birth Certificate if born abroad? Additional copies are $50 each. You may also need to gather documents that prove the parent(s)' U.S. citizenship, marriage (if applicable), and previous physical presence in the United States. A CRBA is an essential tool to certifying citizenship for your child if you register a birth abroad. The document will be signed and notarized by a consular officer, notary public, or another individual who is able to administer oaths. (Learn more in Acquisition of Citizenship for Children.) If the parents are unmarried and the father is a citizen and the mother a non-citizen, the consular officer usually requires that the father sign an affidavit saying that he is the child's biological father and that he will support the child financially. It allows an individual to prove: Their name Age Date of birth Place of birth US citizenship This can then be used by organizations and government offices to allow the person who was issued the FS 545 to: Claim government benefits Be issued forms of government ID Acquire a social security card Live and work in the United States Read more: # How do I get a copy of my Birth Certificate if born abroad? Read on to find out more about how CRBAs are issued and how they can be obtained and how to replace your document if yours has been lost or stolen. But you may replace, amend or request multiple copies of a CRBA at any time. Parents of a child born abroad to a U.S. citizen or citizens should apply for a CRBA and/or a U.S. passport for the child as soon as possible. Page 2 Form FS 545, which is also known as a Certificate of birth abroad, is a now-discontinued vital record. How to Get a CRBA If you are a US citizen or non-citizen national and have recently had a child whilst living abroad, you will need to visit your nearest US embassy or consulate, in order to secure a Consular Report of Birth Abroad. All 3 documents remain valid forms of ID for a birth abroad. The written request must contain the following data: The name of the applicant at the time of birth Any adoptive names The individual's place and date of birth The individual's passport details The names of the parents or legal guardians of the person FS 545 document number The name and contact information of the applicant The signature of the applicant The payment, photo ID, and written request must then be mailed to the following address: U.S. Department of State Passport Vital Records Section 44132 Mercure Cir. They are not eligible because such persons are not considered to have been born abroad. However, any replacements are now issued as Form FS-240. Since 1990, the FS 545 form has been replaced by form DS 1350, which was subsequently superseded in 2011 by form FS 240. Individuals, attorneys and non-profits use the service on desktop or mobile device to prepare immigration forms accurately, avoiding costly delays. It was formerly issued by US consular offices to prove the identity of individuals born abroad to US citizen parents. CitizenPath allows users to try the service for free and provides a 100% money-back guarantee that USCIS will approve the application or petition. If you don't provide all the items listed above, your request for the CRBA will be delayed. Certificate of Birth Abroad Prior to the Consular Report of Birth Abroad, Americans born outside the United States may have received a "Certificate of Birth Abroad." This is a now-discontinued vital record. Find out now how United States citizens can use their issued FS 545 to claim important IDs such as US passports as well as many other benefits. You can download the paper by clicking the button above. The child's parents may choose to apply for a U.S. passport for the child at the same time that they apply for a CRBA. The U.S. embassy or consulate will provide one original copy of an eligible child's Consular Report of Birth Abroad. They are already American citizens or nationals. Individuals born in Puerto Rico, U.S. Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Swains Island, The Panama Canal Zone (before October 1, 1979), The Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (after January 8, 1978, BPM EST), and The Philippines (before July 4, 1946) may establish acquisition of U.S. citizenship or non-citizen nationality, based upon the applicable agreement or statute, by producing their birth certificate issued from the local Vital Records Office along with any other evidence required to establish acquisition. For persons born in American Samoa and Swains Island, the easiest way to obtain American citizenship is to establish residence in the United States and file Form N-400, Application for Naturalization. RECOMMENDED: How U.S. Nationals Apply for Citizenship Obtaining Proof of U.S. Citizenship When Over 18 Individuals born abroad who acquired U.S. citizenship at birth but who are now over the age of 18 (and so not eligible for a CRBA) may apply for a Certificate of Citizenship to document U.S. citizenship using Form N-600, Application for Certificate of Citizenship. Include complete mailing address on the check Mail the request, copy of the photo ID, and payment to: U.S. Department of State Passport Vital Records Section 44132 Mercure Cir. All consulates and embassies around the world are able to provide this service. The FS 240 form is commonly referred to as a Consular Report of Birth Abroad (CRBA). Form FS 240 is an important embassy issued vital record that proves the right to US citizenship if the child of a citizen or resident is born overseas. Additional evidence such as divorce decrees from previous marriages or blood tests may also be required. The child's parent or legal guardian should report his or her birth as soon as possible at the nearest U.S. embassy or consulate so that a Consular Report of Birth Abroad can be issued as an official record of the child's claim to U.S. citizenship. Apply for the Consular Report of Birth Abroad through the nearest U.S. embassy or consulate in the country where your child was born. Replacing Form FS 545 If a person's original form FS 545 is lost or damaged, it must be replaced. This ensures the rights to United States citizenship for your newborn even if they do not have a US registered birth certificate and will allow them to obtain privileges such as: US Passports or other forms of ID Social Security and other governmental benefits Residency in the US The right to work in all 50 states Form FS 240 replaced the formerly administered governmental forms FS 545 and DS 1350 as of 2011. The only restriction to getting a CRBA is whether the parents have or had a right to US residency or held citizenship at the time of the child's birth. Like most essential vital records such as birth certificates and marriage certificates, FS 545 can be used to prove vital information about the holder. Procedures for each embassy can vary. Checks and money orders must be payable in U.S. dollars through a U.S. bank. This was a similar document that remains valid. There is no maximum age that children can register for an FS 240 but parents are recommended to take this step as soon as possible after the birth has been registered in the foreign territory.
