If you want to personalize your phone in a way that not many people take the time to do, you need to know how to make a song your ringtone. Unlike buying ringtones on the iTunes Store, these are free. And unlike the various free tones you can download, these are customized and use the songs you already like. The instructions in this article apply to all iPhone models, and iTunes 12, 11, 10 and 9. The process isn't as simple or straightforward as most iPhone tasks, as Apple doesn't include any kind of built-in method to set up your existing songs as ringtones. You will need to use iTunes on your computer, and follow a few steps to convert the desired song to a special file format, and then sync it with your iPhone. Once you learn how to do it, however, you can easily do it for multiple songs and set up custom ringtones for all your favorite contacts. The process starts on your computer, where you use iTunes to choose a 30-second portion of a song and export that clip to a file format that your iPhone can recognize as a ringtone. Start iTunes on your computer. It's always a good idea to make sure you're running the latest version of iTunes, if you don't use it often, to make sure it will synchronize correctly with your phone. If iTunes offers to install the latest update, let it happen before proceeding. From iTunesLibrary, search for a song you want to convert into a ringtone and click on it to select the song. Play the song and decide which fragment of the song you want to do with a tone of call. It can be any point in the song. Write down the start and stop time so you know what time it will be in a few steps. Right-click on the song and choose information from the song in the drop-down menu. In the Song Information dialog box, click the Options tab. In the start and detention camps, enter the time you want the tone to start and stop and make sure the tables are checked. For example, if you want the first 30 seconds of the song, choose 0:00 and 0:30. Click OK when you do. Your call tone should not exceed 30 seconds or will not work, so make sure you do your math properly. Click the File menu and choose Convert, then convert to the AAC version. After a moment, you should see the new version of the song appears in the music library, directly in the original version currently selected from the track. In previous versions of iTunes, you may need to right-click on the song and choose Create the AAC version on the drop-down menu. Select the new AAC version of the song and copy it to a location on your computer. You can simply drag it to your desktop or other folder. Back on iTunes, you don't need that new creation AAC version, so you can remove it by pressing the Delete key. The original track is still set to play only for 30 seconds, so you can fix it too. Right-click the track and choose information from the song. In the Options tab, delete the check marks to start and stop. Click OK to save your changes. Now, locate the filecall you copied from iTunes. On a PC, click the View tab at the top of the folder and then check the filename extensions on the tape. If you are using a Mac, click the Finder menu and then choose Preferences. In the Finder Preferences, check Show all filename extensions. Click on the file of the song and then, after a moment, click on it a second time so that you can edit the filename. Click on the Extension and m4a beam to M4R, and press ENTER. If requested, confirm that you want to make this change. Once you have created your new ring tone, you must synchronize it to your iPhone so you can start using it. The synchronization process is quite simple. Connect your iPhone to your computer with a USB-ray cable and then click on the iPhone icon in the upper left corner of the iTunes window. Click on the tones on the left side of the screen, in the section of my device. Drag the new ring tone file from the folder on your computer to the right slide of the window, in the Tones folder. The song must be synchronized with your iPhone immediately. Now that I created a ringtone and copied it on your iPhone, you can configure your phone to use when a call appears. Start the Settings on your iPhone. Touch Sounds and Haptics. Touch ring tone. In the ring tone section, find and touch the ring tone you have just made. You can also configure custom ring tones for specific contacts. To do that. Start the Contacts Application and touch the contact you want to change. Touch the Edit button at the top of the screen and then choose the ringtone you want to use. Thank you for letting us know! Dinos why! Why! A. R.
