Comments What is 2 girls 1 The cup is the name that the world gave the trailer of the Brazilian film 'Hungry Bitches' of 2007. The video was found so shocking that it became viral and soon became a feeling of the whole world. People generally agree that 2 girls 1 cup is among the most confrontacious sites ever created, so make sure you tell your friends and let them rejoice! Make sure you check the video cup at the bottom of the site. The story of 2 girls 1 cup was once a brilliant artist called Marco Fiorito who had a company called MFX Media in Brazil. He made a film called Hungry Bitches in 2007 and became a feeling of the internet under the name 2 girls 1 cup. The film has received critical acclamation as the first of a new breed of shock sites, surprising the public with an innovative line of history, cutting-edge camera work, and an inspired cast of Brazilian actresses. Clearly the future is bright for flowery and look forward to other masterpieces from the study of him. The trailer has two women who deflate in a cup, in turn in what seems to consume excrement, and vomiting vomiting The mouths to each other. [1] "Lovers Theme" by Hervé Roy plays throughout the video. [2] The video has become one of the most known shock videos in itself and for the reactions its graphic content aroused by the spectators who had not seen it before. [3] By mid-October 2007, video sharing sites, including YouTube, were flooded with video of the audience's reactions first time. [5] Production speculate that apparent feces are actually food substances such as fried beans, ice cream, or peanut butter. [6] Some speculate that vomiting is real, but it was regurgitated before reaching the stomach and does not contain gastric acids. In the video, most vomiting does not enter the mouths. [7] Fiorito unsuccessfully argued in court that excrement was actually chocolate ice cream. [8] Background The video was created by a Brazilian distributor and pornographer Marco Antônio Fiorito (born July 1, 1971 in São Paulo),[9] which is described as a "compulsive fetishist". [1] Fiorito began to have an interest in producing films in 1994, and in 1996, with his wife, Joelma Brito, using his artistic name Letícia Miller, he started a fetish film business[9] and soon moved into co-profagy. The film was produced by MFX Video, one of the different companies owned by Fiorito. [1]
The U.S. authorities have marked some of the Fiorito films as obscene and filed accusations against Danilo Croce, a Brazilian lawyer who lives in Florida, listed as an officer of a company that distributes Fiorito films in the United States was illegal, he would stop. In his statement he stated: "I would have stopped because money is not the main reason why I make these films." Then he added: "I have already made fetish movies with scat/feces using chocolate instead of feces. Many actors make scam movies, but do not accept to eat feces." [1] The first seconds of the video 2 Girls 1 Cup contains the text "MFX 1209"
(the production code for Hungry Bitches) and the URL mfxvideo.com, the website of the MFX Video of Fiorito, bringing some in the media to believe incorrectly that the video is one of the many Cross had to surrender to the Department of Justice but was somehow leaked into the process. [10][11] Reaction video The popularity of 2 girls 1 Cup was helped by a series of reaction videos, i.e., videos depicting people reacting to watch it. [12] Many videos exist on YouTube of users who show the original video (soff-camera) to their friends and film their reactions, although some can be staged. [3][4][12] Joe Rogan, guest of Fear Factor, a show known for the disgusting things his competitors are dared to eat, had to turn away in a reaction video sent to his blog.[13] A reaction video with a Kermit the Frog puppet turned out to be very popular on the Digg community website.[14] In January 2008, Slate documented the video reaction phenomenon with a presentation of various reactions. [15] Violet Blue, an author, described this site as "the new 'tubgirl' and goats all at a disgusting moment of choco-poo-love" in an article by San Francisco Chronicle. [16] Veteran Ron Jeremy's porn star left while watching far or showing any apparent reaction, all while eating grain on the cob.
[18] Ace Frehley, formerly of Kiss, was shown the video on The Opie and Anthony Show in July 2009, and was not satisfied, stating, "Crazier things that you have been on the road. "[19] "Genuine Nerd" Toby Radloff was so disgusted by the clip he immediately had to look at it again. [20] The video has led to many parodies and other shock videos with similar content, contributing to the titles and nicknames of other video shocks, including 2 girls 1 finger, 8 girls no cup, 1 guy 1 screwdriver, 3 orangutans 1 Blender, 3 guys 1 hammer, and 1 girl 1 The nickname for the 2008 Viral Video Choc Cake Scoring. A short film from the guitarist John Mayer to the blog of him entitled 2 guys 1 cup where Mayer and Best Week Ever correspondent Sherrod Small enjoy Pinkberry frozen yogurt in the same way that women in the original consumed feces. [21] [22] Comico Conan O'Brien created a parody called a boy, two bowls with Andy Richter, showing Andy eating two bowls of soup. This video was created for the comic website of O'Brien, Conan.xxx. [23] The directors Justin Roiland and Christian Le Guilloux made a series of five minutes called 2 girls, 1 cup: the show for the Short film Competition site channel 101. He debuted in first place on 27 January 2008. [24] The comedian Canadian Jon Lajoie also made a song called "2 song Girls 1 Cup", which described the activities in the video, as if the two women were expressing their love for each other. The music video has gained over 10 million views on YouTube. [25] In 2013, the German company MediaMarkt marketed a nicknamed Cupcake Creator "2 Girls 1 Cup-Cake Maker". The product slogan is that he made the tortine "so well that it is impossible film". [26] The first comedy sketch episode inside Amy Schumer has a parody in which Amy Schumer hearings for a role in the film. [27] [28] Media recognition in video media was used as an example of the low quality of youtube content and similar video-sharing websites, and their tendency towards deliberately shocking content. [3] [4] [29] The magazine Esquire showed the video with the actor George Clooney during an interview, pushing him to compare him with a rodeo, saying that the point of the video was to see "How much Time can last ". [30] In an episode of Tosh.0, the whole audience has turned to react to this video. Host Daniel Tosh called the world's largest reaction in terms of the number of people filmed. [31] The Cast of Avenue Q, answering the Muppets' version of "Bohemian Rhapsody", made a video of "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We are the champions" (known as "We Will Rock You" / "We will Rock You" / "

Tatarevich's head has been smashed into contingent objects many times, making it unrecognizable. The bench is located along the road from the local prosecutor's office.
[10] On 1 July, two other victims, Yevgenia Grischenko and Nikolai Serchuk, were found killed in the nearby town of Novomoskovsk. [11] On the night of July 6, three more people were killed in the Dnipro. The first was Egor Nechvoloda, a newly resigned army recruit, who was stranded, while returning home from a disco. The mother found the body in the morning from their condo on Bohdan Khmelnytsky Street. [11] Yelena Shram, a 28th-year-old night guard, was then murdered around the corner on Kosiora Street. 12 According to the recorded confession of Sayenko, as Shram walked toward them, Suprunyuk struck her with the hammer that had been hidden underAnd impressed several times more after he fell. She had been with a bag full of clothes. The men picked up the bag, the clothes used to clean the hammer, and threw out the bag. [13] Then the IL night, men have killed a woman named Valentina Hanzha (no apparent relationship with co-defending Alexander Hanzha), a mother of three with a disabled husband. [11] The next day, July 7, two boys 14 years of Pidhorodne, a nearby town, were attacked while fishing. One of the two friends, Andrei Sidyuk, was killed, but the other, Vadim Lyakhov, riuscì to escape after hiding in the woods. [12] Later, on July 12, the 48-year old Sergei Yatzenko, disabled by a recent bout of cancer, has disappeared while driving his motorcycle Dnepr. His body was found four days later with signs of a savage attack visible even after four days of summer heat. [14] Just days later, on July 14 the 45 year old Natalia Mamarchuk was riding his scooter in the nearby village of Diyovka. As she passed through a wooded area, two men approached her and shot down. Then they blurred to death with a hammer or a pipe and drove away on her scooter. Local witnesses gave chase but lost sight of the attackers. [15] [16] Here are twelve other murders, often with more bodies found on the same day. In addition to the previous shoots, two victims were found every day from July 14 to 16. The victims were apparently selected at random. Many were vulnerable to the attack, including children, the elderly, the vagranti, or people under the influence of alcohol. Most of the victims were killed using fuzzy objects, including hammers and construction steel bars. The shots were often directed to their faces, leaving them unaware. Many victims were also mutilated and tortured; Some victims had their eyes open while they were still alive. A pregnant woman had her fetus cut from her breast. It 's not been reported no sexual attack on any casualties. Some victims were also robbed of their mobile phones and other valuables, their possessions intact. The killings have covered a wide geographical area. Apart Dnipro, many have occurred in areas outside of the Dnipropetrovsk Oblast. [17] Investigation No official link between the murders was made up of the July 7 attack on two boys in Pidhorodne. Vadim Lyakhov, the survivor, was initially arrested on suspicion of murdering his friend with him. [3] He's been reportedly denied access to counsel and beaten by police during the discussion. [3] However, it quickly became clear that he was not responsible for her his friend's death, given that the murder was connected with the waste of murder developing. Lyakhov has cooperated with investigators to create sketches of the attackers. [18]
Two local children who had also witnessed the attack of 14 July Mamarchuk, hidden in a tent a few meters away, they also provided a detailed description of which confirms that given by Lyakhov. A task force has been rapidly sent from Kiev, led by the main criminal investigator Vasily Paskalov. [13] The manhunt soon has grown to include most of the most of the local people home at night. [12] In the end, investigators selectively distributed sketches and lists of property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property began to be identified in stores checkers Novokodatskyi distributed sketches and lists of property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property began to be identified in stores checkers Novokodatskyi distributed sketches and lists of property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon, the stolen property stolen to local pawns shops, and soon to local pawns shops, and soon to local pawns shops.
July 23, 2007. suprunyuk attempted to sell a cell phone stolen from a victim in a local pawn shop, asking 150 hryvnia (about or $30 in 2007.) law enforcement agents tracked the phone location once the store owner turned it on to check its functionality. [3] sayenko and suprunyuk were arrested near the register of the store. [11][20] hanzha was reportedly arrested at home, reportedlyTo download other mobile phones and stolen jewelry along the toilet. The elements were recovered, but all information about the phones were lost. [12] The three suspects had attended the school together, [21] and at the age of 14 found a common ground. "I and IGor [Suprunyuk] both were afraid of heights and we were afraid we were beaten by the bullies," said Sayenko during the questionnaire. Suprunyuk seeks advice to get rid of their fears, which led the boys to stay on a balcony of their fear of heights. [3] Hanzha was reported the most delicious of the three. He had a blood phobia, and also refused to wet his kitten, he feared that he could scare him. Suprunyuk suggested to face fears by torturing stray dogs. The boys captured the dogs in a wooded area near their house, hanged them from the trees, unmarried them, and snapped photos near the corpses. [3] The persecution tests included many of these photos taken by the suspects during the submarines. Some photos show the boys who draw SWASTIKAS and other symbols with animal blood, and give the Nazi greeting. [3] In a photo, Suprunyuk places sporting a mustache toothbrush, similar to Adolf Hitler mustache. Suprunyuk was born on April 20, the same day by Hitler, and referred to and stole him with him, which he then sold to Sayenko. Both were arrested, but they didn't go to prison because of their age. [24] After high school, Hanzha headed through odd jobs, which included a pastry chef and worker. He had been unemployed to him for some time. [21] [25] Sayenko went to a part-time metallurgy institute [11] and worked as a security guard. [26] Suprunyuk remained officially unemployed, but made a stay driving his daewoo green Lanos as an unauthorized taxi. The car was a birthday present of him. [13] A few months before the waste of murder, Suprunyuk â € "with the help of Sayenko and Hanzha â €" he began to collect passengers and robs them. [3] A green daewoo with a taxi chessboard marking has often been described as the vehicle used in murders. According to the confessions of suspects, some victims of murder have been withdrawn as passengers in the cabin. [12] Hanzha reported to have participated in one where two men were robbed, and then refused to take part in any further attack. [5] Local media reported that the suspects had rich and influential parents with local police. Vladimir Suprunyuk, ascent of Kuchma to power. [27] Local authorities, including the Deputy Interior Minister Nikolay Kupyanskiy, initially referred to the alleged influence of the families. However, Sayenko was represented in court by father of him, Igor Sayenko, a lawyer. The three men were accused of involvement in 29 separate accidents, including 21 murders and another eight attacks where the victims survived. [3] He was accused of 27 cases, including 18 murders, five robberies and a count of animal cruelty. Hanzha was accused of two armed robbery charges that were taken from an incident on March 1, 2007 in Kamianske. [29] All three confessed quickly, while the other two suspects claimed guilty of all charges.
[30] viktor chevguz, the original defense lawyer of the reporting that he was disappointed that his client was not accepted. The lawyers for the families of the victims claimed that the level of care of the murderers during their escape of crimes meant that they were fully aware of their actions. [31] the prosecution's evidence included blood stains on suspect clothing and video recordings of the murders. the defense denied that people in the videos were suspicious, claiming serious problems with the investigation, including at least 10 murders covered by the prosecution, [32] alleged coverage of additional arrests of people with powerful connections that were released without being accused, even appointing some of the additional people allegedly involved with the murders. [28] the case was heard by a group of judges chaired by Judge ivan senchenko. [33] the prosecution asked for life imprisonment for Sayenko and Suprunyuk, and 15 years of hard work for Hanzha. [4] Ukrainian has no capital punishment since February 2000 after the Constitutional Court establish motive behind the murder videos they recorded. a suspect's girlfriend reported that they were going to make forty separate videos of murders. this was confirmed by a former classmate who claimed that often heard suprunyuk was in contact with a stranger "rich operator of foreign websites" who ordered forty snuff videos, and would pay a lot of money once they were made. [17] regional security chief ivan stupak refused the claim that the murders were committed to making videos on the internet, saying that there was no evidence of this. [35] Deputy Interior Minister nikolay kupyanskiy commented "for these young people, the murder was like entertainment or hunting. ["26] at the trial, it emerged that suprunyuk collected newspaper cuts in the case. [31] some photographs of the crimes had captions added.
including: "the weak must die. the strongest will win. "[36] the legal team defending suspects consisted in court, but after the first hearings Saidenko asked to be represented by the father because his appointed lawyer apparently graduated in law only two months before. [28] the request was received, which significantly delayed the proceedings as the father of Sayenko became the most important figure of the defense, giving numerous interviews and taking a leading role in judicial proceedings. Hanzha's lawyers based their defense on the fact that he never participated in the fury of the murder, and was involved only with a single incident four months before the beginning of the murders, in which two men were robbed in the nearby town of dniprodzerzhynsk. hanzha admitted his guilt, hoping for indulgence in the sentence. [4] The defence strategy for the other two suspects was to attack the prosecution on a broad front. Many investigators were called to the arrest team and the main investigator in the case, the defense claimed illegal research, improperly kept documents, and issues during the head of the arrest team and the main investigator in the case. the defense claimed illegal research, improperly kept documents, and issues during the head of the arrest team and the main investigator in the case. according to sayenko, the tape stops constantly and restarts, the evidence obtained only after being collected by investigators but never the actual moment of discovery. [28] The legal team also denied that people in murder videos were suspects. In an interview with Komsomolskaya Pravda, Igor Sayenko said that a fourth suspect named Danila Kozlov was initially accused[28] Tatiana Shram, sister of the victim Elena Shrram, also declared in an interview who saw the name of Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that Kozlov was informed aware of the murders and who was with suspicions just before his sister. He was killed. Shram also claimed that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that Kozlov mentioned in court documents and that the investigators told her that the inv named victim claimed to have identified suspicions in her attack, and that two other men have been identified and arrested. The suspects would have been released an hour later due to the pressure of their families, and two of the investigators were arrested, the police captured two men and a woman who commits one of the murders. The suspects attacked police officers, but they were arrested and booked under the names of Sayenko and Suprunyuk, but they were arrested and booked under the names of Sayenko and Suprunyuk, but they were not the men currently in the process. "But now these details are covered," said Sayenko in court. "Investigators claim that this has not happened. But there are people, officers in militsiya, which on July 19, 2007 has received reports that the People arrested they had powerful parents. So the information was quickly suppressed, and instead my son and two of his friends were railway. I also believe that the girl arrested on that day left the country and now is in Germany. "[28] The defense team also supported the accusation held by the Court's information that they exempted their customers. Igor Sayenko stated that the police interviewed witnesses and recovered evidence from two additional murders. The suspects had a strong alibi for the time of these murders, so all the information on these crimes have been removed from the case. [38] Sayenko's defense stated that he had a "psychological dependence" on Suprunyuk repeatedly threatened Sayenko witnessed in court that he was constantly afraid of Suprunyuk from the 7th degree. [13] The defense team's strategy has received some supposed coverage by investigators. Some relatives of the victims told the media that they intended to start an independent organization to monitor judicial proceedings.
[39] Ukrainian authorities strongly denied that a fourth person was involved in the murder who could still be in great and said that we talk about similar crimes after the three suspect arrest were unfounded. [40] Assassin video and photographs Mobile phones and suspicion personal computers contained more murder video recordings. A video was transmitted to the Internet, showing the murder of the 48-year-old Sergei Yatzenko. He is seen lying on his back in a wooded area, and is stressed repeatedly with a hammer to make sure he died. The attack lasts more than four minutes, during which the victim falls in and out of conscience. A murderer is seen smile towards the camera during the video. [41] The killers return to their car, That crime took place near part of a street, next to their parked car. They discuss the murder calmly, expressing a slight surprise that the victim breathed again after a screwdriver was immersed in his exposed brain. The suspects then wash your hands and the hammer with a bottle of water, and e laugh. Only two suspects seem to be present in the video, with one always behind the camera. The suspects were also found in possession of multiple photographs that show them attending the funerals of the victims. They can be seen smiling and "browsing" the coffins and the tombstones. The abuse test of animals was also shown in court, with suspected posing alongside the corpses of mutilated animals. [42] The photographs and two videos. [22] The defense contested the presentation, claiming that the tests were illegally obtained and that the subjects shown in the video and the photographs have been digitally modified to resemble suspects [3]. When Sayenko and Suprunyuk was asked if they recognized people in the photographs, they replied that they didn't. Judge Ivan Senchenko replied stating: "You're not blind". [43] Valery Voronyuk, a cinematographic and video editing expert, testified that the was genuine and showed the suspects in the act of assassining their victims. [22] Victim in the video Man whose murder is recorded in the video leaked was identified as Sergei Yatzenko from the village of Taroms'kÄ ¢ [United Kingdom; RU]. The murder of him took place on 12 July 2007 and the body of him was found on July 16th. [14] Yatzenko was 48 years old. He recently had been forced to pick up due to a cancerous tumor in his throat
The treatment has left him unable to speak for a while, but Yatzenko was unsatisfied not to be able to work and he continued to find strange works around the village. He has taken a small construction work, repaired cars, wove baskets and cooked for his family. He was starting to regain his voice at the moment he was murdered. Yatzenko was married and had two children and a nephew. He also curated his disabled mother. At 2.30pm on the day of the murder, he called his wife to say that she would fill the bike of her and visited her nephew. He has never arrived at his grandson's house, and his cell phone was turned off by 18:00. Her her wife Lyudmila called a friend and went around the village, she's fear that her husband could be sick or had a motorcycle accident. They could not identify any sign of him. It was also not possible to present a relationship of a missing person, since in Ukraine he cannot be declared a missing person up to at least 72 hours after being seen. The next day, Lyudmila has published her husband photos around the village and enlisted more local help to look for the surrounding area. Four days later, a place that saw one of Lyudmila's posters remembered to see a bike from Dnepr abandoned in a wooded area remote from a landfill. She took the relatives of Yatzenko on the scene, where she discovered the body mutilated and decompose. [14] The fact that the murder of Yatzenko was captured in video was unknown to the public up to a judicial session on October 29, 2008. The unmodified video of the murder was shown as part of a great presentation aside of accusation, causing shock in the gallery. The court agreed on charges that the video was genuine, which showed Suprunyuk attacking the "practically impossible". [41] Caitlin of the Times saw part of the video and remembered his reaction in his column in January 2009. [44] Condanna suprunyuk photographed with a hammer; The Court described the killer's motive as "the morbid self-affirmation". On 11 February 2009, the Court of Dnipro found Sayenko and Suprunyuk guilty of premeditated and convicted murder both to lifeSuprunyuk was found guilty of robbery charges. Hanzha, who was not involved in the murders, was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to nine years of imprisonment. [47] Sayenko and Suprunyuk were also found guilty of charges of animal cruelty. Hanzha said of Sayenko and Suprunyuk: "If I had known the atrocities that were capable of committing, I would not have gone near them at the tip of a gun. "[49] The judge stated in the verdict that the main reason for crimes was the desire to "self-affirm" soft. [7] Referring to the accused, the court observed "the poverty of their emotional world, and their lack of interest for people and moral standards." [50] The verdict of the court was several hundred pages long and read in two days. Sayenko and Suprunyuk's lawyers announced their intention to appeal, saying that the authenticity of photographic and video evidence was not established beyond reasonable doubt. The complaint was dismissed by Edmund Saakian, a lawyer for one of the victims, said that other authors involved in crimes could still be in great shape. [51] Sayenko's parents and Suprunyuk repeated their faith in the innocence of their children. Vladimir Suprunyuk claimed that Igor had been tortured to extract his confession, with the police covering his head and forced him to inhale cigarette smoke. Speaking at a television press conference, he cited irregularities in their faith in the innocence of their faith in the police covering his head and forced him to inhale cigarette smoke. investigation and said that the case against his son was false. [52] Sayenko stated that his son was a scapegoat and that the crimes were committed by relatives of senior officials. [53] Parents declared that his son was false. [54] Sayenko stated that his son was false.
that the Hanzha judgment was too so lawful. [55] An opinion poll conducted in Dnipro found that the sentence was right, and 48.6% believed that the sentence was right.
error was excluded. [34] Appeal On 18 August 2009, the Supreme Court of Ukraine postponed the case to the Dnipro Regional Appeal Court. The move was welcomed by Igor Sayenko, who said it was a step towards the compensation of the son's name. [57] Speaking at a press conference, Igor Sayenko and Vladimir Suprunyuk repeated their belief that the case was based on manufactured evidence. A spokesman for the prosecutor's office said that the decision to postpone the case to the appeal court was procedural, and they were sure that the verdict would be welcomed. The appeal court was procedural, and they were sure that the verdict would be welcomed. The appeal court was procedural, and they were sure that the verdict would be welcomed. The appeal was scheduled for 5 October 2009.[58][60] In an interview with the newspaper Novi Most, the mothers of Sayenko and Suprunyuk said that their children were treated well in prison. It was also reported that Igor Sayenko was thinking of creating a website on the case. [61] On November 24, 2009, the Supreme Court of Ukraine confirmed the past life sentences on Sayenko and Suprunyuk in February 2009. Hanzha did not appeal against his nine-year sentence. [62] Release Hanzha In April 2019, it was reported that Alexander Hanzha had been released from prison after serving nine years and is married to two children. [63] Chilean documentary media Suprunyuk waits on the road before Sergei's murderOn 12 July 2007. The yellow plastic bag hides the hammer used in the attack. A longest version of the yatzenko murder video was obtained from the Chilean Documentary series Aquà en alive. On August 2, 2010, the Chilean Mega television channel transmitted a documentary upon Astuccio. It was named Los Manãacos del Martillo (The Hammer Maniacs) and ran for 1 hour and 25 minutes as part of the Aquà en vivo investigative series snuff films for sale abroad. Lidia Mikrenischeva, an elderly woman who survived a hammer attack and helped identify murderers in court, was also interviewed. He remembered he was hit on the head from behind and falling to the ground, but his life was saved when dogs accompanying his barking noisily and frightened by attackers. Natalia Ilchenko, the mother of the first victim known as Ekaterina Ilchenko, recalled that she found the unrecognizable daughter after the hammer attack and commented that the killers should not be compared to animals because they killed for fun. The documentary was remarkable to show a wide range of photographs and videos previously invisible from Suprunyuk is seen looking through the binoculars for any vehicles approaching. It can also be seen posing with a hammer, which hides inside a yellow plastic bag. After 20 minutes, Sergei Yatzenko arrives by bicycle and is knocked on the ground before the attack in the woods next to the road begins. The children of Yatzenko were invited to take part in the documentary, but they decreased. According to the comment, at least five more murder videos are known, The video Yatzenko was shown to Chilean horror film director Jorge Olguon, who was so disturbed that he was unable to watch it. The documentary also showed short extracts from a five-minute video of the murder of another maniac the killings. A video of Hanzha was also shown, with his contusted face after a alleged police beat. Michele Canale tried to get an interview with the murders have been examined, and it has been concluded that, despite the verdict of the Court, there are still December 2010. Both were arrested after a video recording showing a female body mutilated with a knife was found on a camera belonging to Lytkin's uncle, who had become suspicious. The media reports, young people have been influenced by reading Dnepropetrovsk maniacs on the internet. A psychiatric examination found her health care, and told doctors who have chosen weak people as their victims. On 2 April 2013, Anoufriev was sentenced to the imprisonment of life, and Lytkin at 24 years of prison.
