One of the trades that you usually need to consider is that the larger the laptop screen, the heavier it is. It's basic, right? Well, it was until LG launched Gram 17, a 17-inch laptop that weighs less than 3 pounds. After years of refinement, Gram 17 reached a stage last year, where we consider the best 17-inch laptop on the market. The newest model does not change much of that winning fan, and we are not so impressed by this time. Of course, the laptop preaches its points of sale: Gram 17 is still remarkably light and 17 inch panel is fantastic. All, however, underwhelms. To the contrary of the previous model, the new life of the Battery of Gram 17 is below the mother, the performance of the CPU is behind the competitors, and the speakers are distorted in the maximum volume. And while the design of Gram 17 deserves compliments for being light, lacking refinement and flexes in all the wrong ways. Gram 17 is still a convincing laptop for those who want a great display on a portable chassis, but it is not the best 17-inch laptop. The configuration of Gram 17 We reviewed available in selected retailers from $ 1,499. Costco currently sells this unit for $ 1,249 after a $ 250 discount. The laptop has a CPU i7-1065G7 from Intel Core, 16 GB of RAM, a 512 GB SSD and a 2560 x 1600 display Pixel. There is a $ 1,949 model that you can buy directly from LG. This pricier configuration has a CPU Core i7-1065G7, 16GB of RAM and a 1TB M.2 SSD. LG design 17 Gram 17 is an elegant and ultra-light laptop with an appearance without grace. Before criticizing more, LG deserves credit for using magic materials to bring the weight of a 17-inch laptop to 3 pounds. This is not unobtainium, is magnetic alloy - an increasingly common material found on portable laptops. (Image criterion: laptop light)
