Android has been around for more than a year, and at that moment the developers whipped some large apps. Whether you are a new Android owner or a pro looking for new tools, these 10 fantastic and free apps belong to your Arsenal.Photo of Lwallenstein. To jump immediately above the apps that are so common, universal, and well replicated on the iPhone or other mobile platforms that a user with a need probably we can do - Facebook, Yelp, Evernote, remembers milk and endless twitter clients, Widget and app. We also skipped on Google's ordered apps, like Google Voice, navigation and glasses, which are (or will) included the standard on new Android phones. Instead, we are aiming to shine a small light on apps that can easily offer excellent functionality for those who download them.Update: I moved taskiller for free up to a lower ranking, and modify its entry description a little, after some more Searches, off from some comments and emails Andro-savvy.10. Layarin Some ways, this is a vote for the potential of layar as much as the practical application. Walking through your phone and see Wikipedia's subjects, apartments for sale and what Twitter users have delighted through your phone is a rather accurate thing, and potentially useful when you're looking for things to do in a new city. But as Layar continues to add new levels, and how the camera and mobile processing power continue to improve, Layar could become much more interesting than already. One thing worth remembering is that if you don't like the view of the 3D camera, or as the appearance of yourself while you use it, Layar can only show the points of interest on a Google type map. Anyway that you use it, it's an intriguing aspect to what is happening around the corner. Listening to the last update, we couldn't really call to listen to a king among the podcast apps ... had some Irksome bugs, one of them is the loss of episodes and sometimes subscriptions. Now, however, your Google app does a great job not only to find audio content, but Export your subscriptions to manage in Google Reader, guaranteeing a full feed backup and easier recovery of past episodes you want to go back And listen. If you need a fine fine grain podcast control, Acast test, but listen to most. (Original post) The Android market continues to grow, the new phones are apparently coming every bearer, but finding the most laws, AnyCutyou You can drop a lot of things ordered on your home android home screen, but you can't get a click with one click all in the settings and in the extras of your phone. Anycut does not have an excellent interface, and it may require some process and error before arriving exactly what you are looking for. Quite soon, however, you will have access to the deeper guts of your settings, then switch forward and turning off and turn off, enabling location services and other tricks are easy to extract. FreeThe As Desside tariller at Android multi-tasking is that at times, some apps can become unexpectedly become magni of memory or bandwidth or bring the phone with them when they lock. Few apps provide a direct and easy "chit" option, however, and sometimes you can't get to the To close it. Enter taskiller, a free app murder utility that works from its standard icon, or as a series of numerous widgets you can add to the home screen to save the system with a single click. The free version serves advertisements and lacks some advanced features, but generally serves the needs of anyone who tires you to need to actually reset the phone just to clarify space for, know, phone calls and such. Note: This app must be used as more than a last resort than the regular maintenance tool, killing processes and Willy-Nilly apps can disable alarms, kill background synchronization and have other non-intentional consequences.3. Slidescreenyou uses your Android smartphone differently from your desktop computer. Don't work with files and shortcuts, so that check-in on data flows that interests you - E-mail, text messages, Facebook and Twitter, chats and the like. Slidescreen replaces, or simply increasing, if you wish, the main phone screen, creating line after the message line and feed. Slide the central information bar upwards and down to look more or less of your items, scroll right to dismiss items like beds and finish having all your data on your hand at once. Slidescreen also replaces the standard application tray, offering 8 slots to put your apps most frequently accessible and tuck up all the others in a rolling bridge below. It's a total makeover for your phone, in other words - one that could simply make you fall in love with the concept of mobile data. Shoperokay, at the beginning we were rather skeptical of the application of Google's Shopper, since it only seemed a mashup of his Google glasses and Google's smart-smart apps like Shopsavvy. Then we actually used the shopper, and we were amazed both from what is accurately considered both barcodes and simple hedging shots, and how much it worked very quickly. It turns out, according to a developer who appeared in this week in Google, shopper is actually loading the image data on Google servers as it captures and decodes the barcode on the phone. The speed for the speed sake is beautiful, of course, but it's nice enough not to have to stand in front of a display of a book for a whole two minutes, waving the phone around a group of books you are trying to do the competitive price. The buyer answers the question "I can buy this cheapest", and responds quickly.Android: Google has already got got glasses for visual search and the Google Shopper's mobile site can be run ... Astro File ManagerThis is one of those app app Hope has a bit of attention, if only to be purchased from Google or otherwise integrated into the base phone software. Astro File Manager does a great job to allow you to navigate the files on the SD card and the internal memory accessible, surely, but it also has your own integrated killer task, backing up applications, can send files as e-mail attachments (not everything Easy or intuitive from the mail client, for some reason) and much more. It is the Leatherman of Android utilities and a must-have on any serious Geek phone. To each of them, obviously, but we would like to hear which Android apps consider crucial to your phone in the comments. We tend to free, but if you have found a cheap app that is worth a few dollars, our loving Android readers and developers, they would probably be happy for the referral. Android car is one of the best things to happen to a stack of the center of a car. It offers quick access to messages, phone calls and smaller things like time. Also, you can listen to all kinds of audio content, browse into practice anywhere and ask Google for a group of different things. It is available for any Android device and is quite easy to use. Just connect the phone into your car via USB and you're ready to put it and go. Do you want to know more? Here is a guide on battery-powered motorcycles from Green AuthorityThere are a variety of app to customize the experience and you can really do almost everything you want with it except videos. Obviously, Google Assistant needs here mentioned here since it works with the microphones of your car to provide content while driving, but you need to use Android car anyway. So we didn't list below. We can help you customize your experience with the best Android car apps for Android! Audible and overdrive are two of the most popular audiobook services outside. Both also have automatic Android support. They work practically the same way. You can buy audiobooks and listen to them in your car. It works great for switches or road trips and is a fun alternative to music for those who want something a little less intense. Audible also has a subscription service for those who would prefer to go that route that buy individual books. Overdrive is a good alternative to audible if they don't want it. Price: free / $ 9.99 For MonthiiiiRadio is one of the best Internet radio apps and has excellent Android automatic support. You can find a lot of regular musical stations along with the radio stations made. You can always use your radio for radio stations rules, but therradio helps keep everything in Android cars for people who want to do this way. The service is completely free with ads or there is an optional subscription for those who want more things. We are particularly great fan of therradio during Christmas holidays because its Christmas station is excellent. It is still fantastic even in the other 11 months of the year. Joe Hindy / Android Authority Price: free / up to $ 2.49MediaMedionkey is a local music player. There are lots of great local music players for Android cars. We also have a list linked below the opening paragraph for this. However, we like Midonkey. The app itself is simple and customizable and there is no bunch of extra nonsense to intrude. The Android car experience is just as simple and effective. It is easy to reach the playlists you have made or access the music from your library. Pulsar and PowerAMP are also excellent options, but MediaMonkey also has a desktop app so you can keep the local library all under a roof. Facebook Messenger and Telegram are two very different apps. The first is (together with The world's most popular messenger service and there is a good opportunity that your friends and family have or use it regularly. Telegram, on the contrary, is a messaging app on privacy with encryption and other privacy features. Both work with Android cars and are probably the two best apps they do. We us Facelook Messenger for those who just want to keep in touch and telegram to those who want some privacy extra.å, Joe Hindy / Android Authority Price: free / $ 4.99- $ 9.99 per month Pandora was in the car first Android car and is still one of the best Android car music apps. It has a large stock of musical stations and you can create your own with the music you like. Pandora also has a Music-On-Demand service for $ 9.99 a month that competes with services like Google Play Music and Spotify. It is an excellent all-in-one solution for radio and music from the internet you like. The subscription of $ 4.99 a month adds some features for the radio side of things if they don't want on-demand stuff. Podcast Addict and DoggCatcher are two excellent podcast apps and both have automatic Android support. Podcast Addict has a functional user interface and works very similar to pocket cast before its redesign. DoggCatcher is a bit more flashy but it works more or less the same way. Both podcast players have premium monofere versions, access to tons of podcasts and support for video and audio podcasts. Podcast Addict also supports youtube and twitch subscriptions, audiobooks, RSS and SoundCloud feeds, making it the most powerful option overall. You can't go wrong in both cases. Price: free / $ 0.99 per month / $ 5.99 per year / $ 10.99 10.99 Once Pulsulse SMS is, honestly, our favorite SMS app on Android. Works on computers, tablets, mobile devices and cars. So you can get your texts almost anywhere. The app is configured and you can respond to messages in Android cars. Textra is a favorite fan and it is also a fantastic SMS app with Android automatic support. However, Pulse SMS has more functions and is available on multiple platforms. If you want a large all-in-one SMS experience (if rather expensive), Pulse's SMS is where it is in. Textra is a good simple option if you want it. Price: free / $ 9.99 per monthetotify is the world's most popular musical streaming service and runs great with car android. It works well with voice commands and you can access your playlists at the drop of a hat. Most people already know what Spotify can do and because it's fantastic. Google Play Music is another great option and works perfectly with voice commands and such. However, his future is uncertain thanks to YouTube music. Some other decent musical streaming options include Deezer and Amazon Music. Waze and Google Maps are about the only two navigation apps that work with Android cars. Both are also from Google. Google Maps is the obvious choice because it has a ton of functionality and is the default option. However, you can also go with confusion if you want something a little different. Both apps respond to vocal inputs on Android cars and both help navigate to your destination. There isn't much more to say. Joe Hindy / Android Autongoogle has a whole page Google Play Store for Android Auto Apps. You can find all types of gems hidden on this page, including individual radio station applications, various messaging apps such as Skype, news sites, podcasts and all kinds of other content. All these apps should have automatic Android support and those looking for diamond in the raw apps should find them on this page. Press the button and get ready to browse through Stuff Google Dice has automatic Android support. Unfortunately, we could not try all these before writing the article because there are dozens of them. However, those we've tried did work and all the Android car apps on this list are also on the linked page. Discover all the Android car apps here! Appsandroid App, Android Auto, Best Apps Apps
