À á â ã ~ "Every day I wake up for the translations of Asian iPhone 6 voices in my mailbox. Mainly I ignore them because I can understand that Apple is not coming out of an iPhone business at any time soon, so obviously we will get it A new one in fall, just like every fall, and when you do dozens of millions of something, of course things will waste. But so will erase prototypes and false aperitifs. However, sometimes losses come from too strange sources to be transmitted. Take this tweet. From the Secretary of the Secretary-General of the National Broadcasting and Telecommunications Commission (NBTC) Commission in Thailand Takorn Scullion: IBTC Office through the standard iPhone 6 to allow dealers in Thailand. This is further processed by Astv Manager Online: Secretary NBTC. Reveals Apple's request for permission to import two new iPhone models in code A1586 and A1524 but have not been revealed to the details. Since it is a corporate secret confirmation of this fastest approval than iPhone 5S. If it is accurate, it is both interesting and remarkably indiscreet. In any case, you will probably not receive a new year stamp post stamp from Cupertino at any time next time. In Frasqua, Weibo Rumors translations suggest that iPhone 6 has inserted the product validation test (PVT) because, you know, Apple wants to make sure that production actually works as expected and up to specific ones before the tens of millions of devices are pushed. Everything to say that everything is probably the right of the day for 9 September event day and the day of 19 September of the Heading-with-With-Welli model. Now feel free to speculate what exactly those two model codes, if accurate, can refer to ... Update a local Thailand multimedia socket now complaints, through unknown sources, that Apple's representatives asked to meet the National Transmission Committee and National telecommunications in the country. The report states that Apple has expressed concerns that currently the specifications of the reserved device could be revealed by the NBTC before Apple face official announcements. The same report states that the NBTC defended its actions in revealing the numbers of the device, claiming to be covered by the laws of Thailand. At my marketing agency, Cipher, I deal with many customers who take us to build a website for their business idea, based exclusively on their hint that the idea will have success. They jump the phase to understand before if a real problem in the world are resolved. Before investing at any time and money in a business, you need to validate your idea. I asked the members of the young advice of the entrepreneur, an organization only in invitation for young people, entrepreneurs on the best ways to validate ideas. Take a look at their answers below: a simple way to evaluate interest in an idea is to manage some basic fist tests. Devesh Drivedi, Author and Speaker who founded his first company at the age of 14, advises entrepreneurs to manage a basic craigslist ad to evaluate interests. For example, maybe you want to start a business around hiring online. First, enter an ad that offers services. Do people contact? This is an economical and effective way to shine feedback on start-ups or related ideas. Travis Steffan, a serial entrepreneur, says that he generally places an idea on a site like launchrock, which helps people quickly create a "Launch" page. Then invests in Facebook ads and click-through rate clocks. If a good number of people sign up, it means there is a real interest, and it is time to take the next step. This sounds basic but it is worth remembering. Instead of focusing on building products simply "cool" or "innovative", ask yourself if the product is something you should use. This is the approach Matt AckerSon, founder of Saberblast.com, took when he launched his company. The easiest way to validate an idea, he says, is to "invest in a market of one: yourself." Find a mentor or an industrial consultant. There will always be people who have experience or experimentation that you miss. Do not detach from them - introduce and make a connection. In this way, you have a valuable contact in the field of your choice to determine where your needs are, and how you can address them. If you like SurveyMonkey.com can help you gather feedback about your ideas. Create one and share it on your Facebook page, Twitter feed and LinkedIn profile, or send it to trusted professionals, friends, former collaborators, students and family members in email explosions. This is another great way to assess needs, interests and gaps in specific industries. He's gonna lead somewhere, says Corey Blake, a Pundit and Performer comic. Maybe it results in a successful product, maybe it won't. However, you get a valuable education in which jobs that will help you later. What methods did you use to test your ideas? Last Updated on 25 August 2021 As a recruiter, I met and interviewed hundreds of candidates who have no idea who they are. Without a personal mark, candidates fight to answer the question: á € "Do they account for you? You? á € "They have no idea who they are, what their strengths are and how they can add value to the company. They present their CV, believing that their CV is the key to their career success. Somehow, your CV still has its use. However, in today's job market, you need more than one CV to stand out in a crowd. Dry to Celinne from Costa: á€ "BrandSonal Brand is essentially your golden ticket for networking with the right people, to be hired for A dream job, or build an influential business. "She believes that" a strong personal brand allows you to stand out in a super-shape market by exposing the audience you want to see, skillset and personality in a way that isStrategically aligned with your career goals. »A personal brand opens your world to so many other career opportunities that you would never have been exposed with just your CV. What is your personal brand? yoursÁ Bernard Kelvin Clive Today, the labour market is very competitive and difficult. Having a great CV just lets you go so far, because each of us has a resume, but no one else has your own distinctive personal brand! It is your personal brand that differs from all others and this is what people Buya you.Your personal brand is your sign in the world. It is as people interact with the world and you see. It is your legacy is more important than a corporate brand because your personal brand lasts forever. There are people followed by a companion who have very successful careers, and come to me because they suddenly discovered that they are not always opportunities or have conversations that would make them for their next role. They are having what I call a career tracollo to, to all because they have no brand.A personal personal personal brand helps to become aware of your differences and your uniqueness. It allows you to place yourself in a way that makes you stand out of the choir, especially among other job potential applicants. Don't misunderstand me, with a great resume and a great LinkedIn profile is important. However, there are some points you need to take to have a resume and the LinkedIn profile which is aligned to who you are, the value you offer to the market, and the personal guarantee that you express results. Building your personal brand is about strategically, creatively and professionally presenting what you do, yes. Knowing who you are and the value you bring to the table allows you to be more informed, agile and adaptable to the changing dynamic world of work. This is how you can avoid having a series of career flows. Your personal brand is essential for your career success in his article, because the personal brand is more important than ever. Caroline Castrillon outlines the main reasons why a personal brand is essential for career success. According to Castrillon, á € " Most popular for recruiters to use social media during the interview process. According to a 2018 Parerbuilder survey, 70% of employers use social media to shield candidates during the recruitment process, and 43% of employers use social media to verify current employees. »The first thing I do as a recruiter when I want To check a candidate or coaching client is to look for them on LinkedIn or other social media platforms, such as Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. Your fingerprint is the window that highlights the world you are. When you have no control over how you want to see, you're making a big mistake because you're leaving it to someone else to make a judgment for you for what you are. Like Jeff Bezos, Amazon's founder, said once, "Your brand is what people say about you when you're not in the room." Incoming, Michelle Obama writes about the importance of having a personal Brand and her journey to define her personal brand. You wrote that: Á If you don't go out and define yourself, youâ ll ldefined quickly and inaccurately by others.Á € When you have a personal brand, you have control. You know exactly what people will say about you when you leave the room. The magic of a personal brand is that it gives you control over how you want to see in the world. Your confidence and conviction allow you to take advantage of opportunities and make informed decisions about your career and your future. Do not experience the frustrations of a career merger or be at a crossroads not knowing what to do after your career or your life. With a personal brand, you have focus, clarity and strategy to move forward towards future success. Creating your personal brand will not happen overnight. It takes a lot of work and self-reflection. You expect us to use out of your comfort zone not once, but many times. The good news is that the more time you spend outside your comfort zone, the more you will like to be there. Being outside of your comfort zone is where you can test profitability and optimize your personal brand. 5 Key steps to create your personal brand These five steps will help you create a personal brand that will give you the results you want with your career and life. 1. Set your personal goals What do you want to do over the next five years? What will your future do in the next five or ten years? What's important to you? If you can answer these questions, then you're on the right path. Otherwise, you have to start thinking about them. 2. Create the unique value proposal Create your unique value proposal asking yourself these four questions: What are your personality features? What benefit do you offer people? Who are you and why people have fun working with you? What do you do and what do you want people to do for them? How do you solve their problems? What makes you different from others like you? The answers to these questions will give you the information you need to create your professional history, which is the main step to create your personal brand. 3. Write your professional history knowing who you are, what you want, and the unique value you offer is essential for you to create your professional history. People remember stories. Your personal story incorporates your value proposal and tells people you are and what makes you unique. That's what people will remember about you. 4. Determining which platforms will support your personal brand to decide which social media accounts and online platforms will best represent your brand and will allow you to share your voice. In a professional capacity, with a LinkedIn profile and a CV that reflects your brand is essential for your positioning in relation to role opportunities. People will connect with you because you will like the story you're saying. 5. Become recognized to share yourand your skills A great way to promote yourself is by sharing knowledge and helping others. This is where you show yourself to know stuff and you earn exposure to it. You can do it through social media, writing, commenting, video, joining professional groups, networking, etc. Find your style and uniqueness and use it to attract customers, opportunities, or jobs you desire. The importance of having a personal brand is not going to leave. In fact, it is the only way you can stand out and be unique in a complex world that changes work. If you don't have a personal brand, someone will do it for you. If you let this happen, you have no control and you may not like the story they create. Giving out of others takes time and investment. Most people can't make change alone, and it's here that involves a personal brand coach is a feasible option to consider. As a personal brand manager, working with my customers to create their personal brand is my passion. I like the fact that you can work together to create a personal story that defines exactly what people will say when you leave the room. The stories of other people who listen to other people's stories is a great way to learn. In his article, 7 TED talks about the personal brand, Rafael Dos Santos presents the best interviews where speakers share their stories about the á€ "because, á€ á€ œWhat, á€" Personal Branding. ((Guidedpr: 7 Ted talks on the personal brand)) Take some time to listen to these speakers who share their stories and thoughts on the personal brand. You will certainly appreciate it so much on how you can start your journey to define yourself and take control of your professional and personal life. Your personal brand, no doubt, is your secret weapon for your career success. As Michelle Obama said, "Your story is what you have, what you will always have. It's something to own. So, go your story. Go on the way to create your own brand that defines who you are, emphasizes your uniqueness and value you offer to the world. Photo credit.
