You're a "Dragon Master" & it's your task to accumulate as numerous Dragons as possible & include them in your group. The more you accumulate, the more powerful the team that you put together. The theory of the game is you will be in control of what's essential, a dragon plantation. You accumulate dragon egg, collect them & as soon as they hatch, you can place the dragon which pops from it in your personal Dragon City. You'll also have to look after your dragons as they breed & hatch. And There's a feeding mechanism to do precisely that. You nourish your dragons using food you accumulate & that induces them to stimulate. You'll also need to make a few buildings for doing this. As an example, you require to construct a farm first so as to continuously make foods for the dragons.
