(February 2018) (Learn how and when to delete this template message) Photo software Aurora HDR Developer (s) MACPHUN LLC Stable Release 2017 Operation System Ac OS X Windows Sp photo Post-Production Re-Scene Pro My Site Aurora HDR Aurora HDR is a photo software developed by MacPhun Software for Mac OS X and Windows. MACPHUN changed its name to Skylum in early 2018. Aurora HDR is a high dynamic editing and processing tool (HDR) published in November 2015. It was done through a collaboration between the MACPHUN and HDR software developer Trey Ratcliff. [1] HDR image editing techniques are designed to overcome difficult lighting situations where the highlights and shadows prevail in the same image, but they have also been used to create highly processed fantasies. By automatically aligning and merging multiple photo exhibitions, Aurora HDR can create a unique mapping image. A collection of powerful editing and processing tools also allows compositions in layers and specific areas of photography and graphic processing. The Aurora HDR versions and accessories come in five different versions for two different operating systems. Previous and current versions include: Aurora HDR (optionally sold in the App Store Mac); Aurora HDR pro; Aurora HDR Pro + Training, Aurora 2017; and Aurora 2018. The software is executed as a plugin and as a plugin to host applications such as Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Photoshop Lightroom, Adobe Photoshop and Apple Aperture elements. In early 2016, Aurora HDR was updated with support to run as an extension for Apple photos for Mac. [2] In 2016, MacPhun released the next version of Aurora HDR - Aurora HDR 2017 along with a Windows version. In 2018 Skylum launched Aurora 2018 for Mac and operating systems. [3] Key functionality of Aurora HDR The initial merger of Aurora HDR works on individual images or multiple exhibitions, and the initial fusion options change depending on the number of charged images. If a single image is provided to the Software, the option "Reduction of the chromatic aberration" is available. If multiple exhibitions are selected, "alignment" options and "ghost reduction" are revealed. The alignment should be checked if the multiple images were recorded while holding the camera by hand vs. A Triller. The reduction of ghosts is related to minimizing the effects of mobile objects in a multiple extension merger process. [4] If you have mobile objects, choose this function. Interface The Aurora HDR user interface consists of the following: Large Open & AMP preview window; Export / share zoom & amp; Navigation Comparison Controls Undo / Red Culture Tool Move (Hand) Tool Brush Histogram Chapels Advanced Tools Presets Presets are a single-click controls that apply a specific "style" to the toned image. This style is created entirely by the use and modification of the Advance tools containing in the software. The Preset Panel in Aurora HDR PRO contains 7 separate categories applicable to all types of photos: Trey Ratcliff, Basic, HDR, Dramatic, Landscape, Interior, Architecture, Each GRA Miniature feathers representing several or dozens of styles. In addition, users can designate a preset as a "favorite" or create their own. Aurora HDR tools comes with an extensive list of tools and functionality designed to help photographers edit their images using HDR techniques. The tools range from those that can help reproduce a natural and realistic look at those who enhance images towards a More similar to fantasy. Each tool that appears below has a unique set of controls to modify its effects. [5] TONE MAPPING TONE STRUCTURE HDR DENOISE Image Radiance Color Details Glow Top & Amp; Bottom Lighting [6] Tone Curve Colored Color Color Color Filter Vineyards, brushes and masking Aurora HDR PRO features the ability to create up to 9 layers (4 in the version of the MAC app store), and provides a common brushing and masking functionality in many image editing software programs. The layers can be automatically loaded with (a) the previous layer, (b) a custom texture, (c) the original tone mapped image, or (d) any of the exhibitions in the set of parentheses. Brushes and masking, including gradient masking are used to selectively apply or delete the effects of the image. An advanced feature of Aurora HDR's pro version is to designate a layer as one that contains "masking of luminosity". The opening, file formats and export of Aurora HDR opens a variety of popular image file formats, including raw camera files that are native manufacturers of specific cameras (e.g. NEF and Canon CR2). Save in a native file format (.mphau) that allows the resuming of the edition after saving and closing the file. Software exports in the following file formats: JPG, PNG, GIF, JPG-2000, TIFF, Photoshop and PDF, and can also transfer images directly to MacPhun's creative suite for more information. Share the software allows you to share images galleries such as 500px, Smugmug and Flickr, as well as social networks such as Facebook and Twitter. In addition, Aurora HDR can send images by email or Apple messages. References ^ "About Trey Ratcliff â€" is stuck in customs ". ^ "File copy". Archived from the original on 2016-01-22.
