From the main menu, select , and then select HTML File from the list. By default, after you open an HTML file in the browser or in the built-in preview, IntelliJ IDEA automatically reloads the page each time this HTML file (or any linked JavaScript or Style Sheet files) is saved manually or automatically (see Save and Revert Changes). When you save a file that triggers the page reload, IntelliJ IDEA displays a tip from the Got it tool. You can configure another gene editor in which the IDE can open files. from the list.In the Open URL dialog box that opens, type the address a URL of the Web page or choose a previously opened URL from the list. Within a , or tag, IntelliJ IDEA suggests filling in the path of the referenced file.Alternatively, in the Project tool window, select the JavaScript, CSS, or image file you want to reference, and then drag it to the HTML file. You can disable this behavior or set the pop-up window to appear faster or slower, see Configure the behavior of the Documentation pop-up window below. You can also extract entire blocks of JavaScript inside tags. You can also hover the mouse's pointer over the so that the browser icons appear and click. Select the fragment to wrap and press Ctrl+Alt+T or select from the main menu.From the list, select Wrap with Label. IntelliJ IDEA is aware of all the standard HTML tags, and reports all unknown tags in its markup. Go to the Tools page Web Browsers and preview the settings IDE Ctrl+Alt+S. This summary is displayed in the Documentation pop-up window which also shows the missing state a or an attribute and information about its compatibility with several browsers.If the tag or attribute is available in all browser versions, IntelliJ IDEA does not show any information about its compatibility. compatibility. The versions that support the label or attribute capacity.com are reviewed only for Chrome, Chrome Android, Safari, Safari iOS, Firefox, Internet Explorer and Edge. If the label or attribute is disused, the pop-up window informs you about this state. All project files are served on the server incorporated with the RAÄZ URL http://localhost: / , with respect to the structure of the project. In the main menu, select, and then select the desired browser from the list. To open the IntelliJ Default Browser, select Default.Alternatively, float the mouse pointer over the code to show the pop-up of the browser icons and click on the icon that indicates the desired browser: if you only have a browser configured , just press ALT + F2. In the Settings / Preferences dialog (Ctrl + Alt + S), go to . Select the color scheme, accept the highlighted configuration inherited from the default values or personnel as described in colors and sources. This server is always executed and does not require any manual configuration. By default, it is selected in SABOR. Select on the change to reload the pages as you upgrade the HTML file or the corresponding linked files. Select Disabled to suppress the automatic load. Changes in recharging behavior only come into force after closing the currently open built-in version. o Preview of the browser. Alternatively, click Configure on the recharge tools area. In the recharge behavior area, the recharge page in the browser and the recharge page on the built-in preview lists, select the actions that will activate the PLA automatic recharge gins in web browsers and in the In preview. IntelliJ Idea, encloses the selection in a pair of brackets (and). Enter the label within the opening brackets . You can open the output of your HTML code in the IntelliJ Idea, built-in or externally, in a browser of your choice. The preview functionality is based on the integrated Web server IntelliJ . You can use navigation to the font, open an image image an external graphic editor or preview images on the go. To change this default, open the Configuration/Preferences dialog box (Ctrl+Alt+S), go to and on the built-in Server specify any other value from 1024. If you use a framework that relies on custom HTML tags, those tags will also be reported as unknown, which would be a false positive in that case. Select the image file in the Project tool window and press F4.Alternatively, place the intercalation symbol in the image reference in the editor and press Ctrl+Bead to preview an image in a pop-up window instead of on a separate tab, select the reference to it and press Ctrl+ Shift+I Select the image file in the Project tool window, and select or press Ctrl+Alt+F4.Intelij IDEA opens the image in the editor that is used on your operating system by default. In the Documentation pop-up menu Ctrl+Q, click on the link at the bottom.Press Shift+F1 or select from the main menu. Place the caret symbol on the tag or attribute and press Ctrl+Q or select from the main menu. IntelliJ IDEA creates an auxiliary code file based on the HTML file template and opens it in the editor. You can change the default behavior to reload the page as you type, so that changes to the HTML or related file appear immediately in the browser or in the built-in preview. IntelliJ IDEA automatically fills in the tag between the closing brackets . When you place the mouse pointer over a tag or attribute, IntelliJ IDEA immediately displays the corresponding reference in the Documentation pop-up window. By default, the HTML 5.0 specification of W3C is assumed.
