10-item ruminative response scale pdf.

RRS is a revision of the original, longer response styles questionnaire. The RRS was developed more directly and reliably evaluating the Rumination that is linked, but not confused by depression. The 22 rrs entries measure two aspects of rumination, meditative and reflective meditation. Items are valued on a four-point scale: 1-almost ever, 2-sometimes, 3 often, 4-almost always. The questionnaire provides scores for the following stairs: brooding, reflection, and depression. Evaluated domains: Depression and mood Note: The first 29 Subjects of the NFB protocol has been given a slightly longer version of RRS, based on the RSQ. This version contains 21 of the 22 RRS articles. The only element that has been omitted was from the depression underclare and therefore impacts that undercale, as well as the RRS total score. Examination of about 20 subjects who completed complete RRS revealed correlations> R = .95 between 11-element and 12-ITEM Subscale depression and 21 and 22-element total scale score.
